

Saint Telemachus - Feast Day - January 1

Laban Thua

Today is Monday, March 13, 2023

Saint Telemachus was also known as Almachio, Almachius, Almachus or Almaquioa. He was a monk born in the eastern part of the Roman empire in Europe. His feast Day is celebrated on January 1 every year.

Saint Telemachus Biography
Date of Birth	N/A
Country of Birth	Eastern part of the Roman empire
Profession	Monk and Hermit
Place of Work	Rome
Date of Death	January 1 391 or 404
Place of Death	Rome, Italy
Feast Day	January 1
Beatification	Pre congregation
Canonization	Pre congregation
Patron Saint of	N/A

Saint Telemachus Life History

Saint Telemachus was a monk or a hermit from the eastern part of the Roman empire. While in Rome, Italy he tried to stop a gladiatorial combat in a Roman amphitheatre but the crowd got unruly and stoned him to death.

The emperor at that time, Honorius, was a Christian and he was moved by Telemachus martyrdom. Consequently, he banned all gladiatorial fights in his area of jurisdiction. In Rome, the last known gladiatorial combat was on January 1 404 AD.

Saint Telemachus Date and Place of birth

Telemachus was born in the eastern part of the Roman empire in Europe though his exact dates are not known.

St Telemachus Date and Place of Death

On January 1 391 or 404, in Rome, Italy, St. Telemachus was stoned to death or cut to pieces and died as a martyr.

St. Telemachus feast day is on January 1 every year.

Canonization

St. Telemachus was canonized Pre congregation.

Powered By SEO Experts

Daily Catholic Readings App Download

We at Catholicreadings.org are excited to bring to you this marvelous Android Catholic Daily Readings App that will brighten up your day, every day. In this App you will get: Catholic Daily Readings and Homily [Read More ...]